This is a letter concerning GMO's, genetically modified organisms, and labeling practices concerning them.

I believe that as consumers, we have the right to thorough and honest labeling on the products we buy. I also believe the companies that sell us these products owe that to the consumer - a fair, comprehensive label. Food products are especially important. I, personally, do not want to eat foods that have been genetically altered. I understand the genetics of plants, I am a horticulturalist. I value the role of genetics in creating new plant varieties. However, I want to know when I am ingesting a food that has been genetically altered in a lab, using genes that are not necessarily from compatible plants - sometimes not even from plants at all.

I believe we have a right to be educated and informed of the origins of the foods we eat. For me and for my future children - please begin regulating the labeling of GMO's - As a consumer I have a right to know what I am eating.

Thank you -
